

Question 1...Do you believe that having a well-maintained home in a safe neighborhood to bring our families up in to be good productive citizens is a quality of life issue?

Question 2...Do you believe that dishonest and incompetent contractors are prevalent in America, and homeowners lose more money dollar for dollar from the crimes that some dishonest and incompetent contractors do on a daily basis?

Question 3...Do you believe that contractor fraud contributes to a lack of investment by homeowners in maintaining their properties?

Question 4...Do you believe with consumer confidence will come consumer spending, and this willingness to spend money for home improvements will help in the development of neighborhoods that might not have been developed in the past, and this will have a positive effect.

Question 5...Would you support legislation for the testing and certification of residential contractors and shop at home companies?

Question 6...Would you review www.Disclosure For The public.com, the Integrity Test, the 1-2-3 simple solution for testing of residential contractors and shop at home companies? Disclosure is the printing of detailed information about the company's history and operating procedure on the reverse side of the contract to give consumers the opportunity to evaluate information from licensed companies before they enter into a contract.

Question 7...Do you believe consumers should be responsible to evaluate honest information and make the final decision on how to invest their money to improve their homes?

Question 8...Do you believe if legislation is passed for the testing and certifying of residential contractors that enforcement is important?

Question 9...Do you believe in limited government involvement and marketplace enforcement?

Question 12...After reviewing the concept of disclosure for the public as a 1-2-3 simple solution to contractor fraud, do you believe that disclosure equals honesty, and will provide marketplace enforcement with limited government involvement?

Answer.....

Yes

No

Comments Appreciated _____

Question 13...After reviewing our $1000 Challenge which states there's no downside to the concept of the integrity test prior to licensing of residential contractors, would you register your support at www.Americans Who Care.com?

Answer.....

Yes

No

Comments Appreciated _____

Disclosure offers accountability for both the contractor and the consumer. Disclosure offers dependable companies with integrity a clear advantage in the marketplace when leaving estimates with consumers. Disclosure offers limited government involvement with marketplace enforcement. If a contractor would intentionally misrepresent with fraudulent information to influence a purchase, they risk non-payment, and possible incarceration. Homeowners would have the opportunity to evaluate honest information from licensed companies before they enter into a contract. Disclosure information will reduce fraud and create market growth and help in the development of safer neighborhoods....This is a quality of life issue.

www.Americans Who Care.com

Question 14...Do you believe that Americans who care are entitled to clarity from our elected officials on their positions on issues that improve the quality of life for Americans who care?

Answer.....

Yes

No

No Opinion

Comments Appreciated _____

AMERICANS WHO CARE....BELIEVE THAT OUR ELECTED OFFICIALS SHOULD BE HELD ACCOUNTABLE WHEN THEY HAVE BEEN PUT ON NOTICE THAT THERE IS A SIMPLE SOLUTION TO SHOP-AT-HOME CONSUMER FRAUD, THE INTEGRITY TEST FOR SHOP-IN-HOME COMPANIES,

WWW.DISCLOSURE FOR THE PUBLIC.COM

AMERICANS WHO CARE will be proactive in getting support for disclosure for the public. Everyone should have a position for disclosure. Either you are for disclosure or you are opposed to disclosure. Our position is there can be no opposing point of view for those that believe in productivity, ingenuity, and honesty. It would be difficult to believe that anyone could have no opinion on this important issue.

www.Americans Who Care.com will be disclosing the positions of municipalities, manufacturers, politicians and organizations, and we will promote those that support disclosure on our website to show that there is a broad base of support for this new regulation. I am also hoping public officials and celebrities will take a stand for disclosure for the public and promote their support. We will make available to all subscribers links to their website. Contact your local talk radio station, let them know your position for disclosure for the public, talk to your block captain, committee person, church leaders, or civic association. Hopefully the mainstream media will support this important political issue, and publicly ask the tough questions of our elected officials. Do they support disclosure for the public?